Everything looks to have gone well tonight. The public viewer is up to date as of data posted from yesterday. We will now do it on a daily basis for data posted "Yesterday" to stay behind.

Tomorrow I will finish documenting the process on the technical side and distribute.

Thanks Melissa, Melissa, Joe and Frank for working on this process with us.

We are going to move forward with the push to the viewer tonight of the updated lab results table unless anyone has any objections. Tomorrow we will start the regular process of updating it daily based off the emails. Again unless there are any objections.

Thanks Frank.

Ok I have:

1. Imported all the lab results loaded to the epa.gov site as of yesterday.
2. Published the Approved Project

Can someone looked at the approved project table before I run the combine to move it to our servers?

I have some feedback from yesterday's post – There is a column being added along the way called detect with and Y,N and sometimes the results unit was merged together into 2 columns.
